Human Development and Family Science Major

The field of human development and family science is dedicated to enhancing the relationships among individuals, families, communities and the environments in which they function. The educational and professional field of human development and family science take leadership in improving individual, family, and community well-being; impacting the development, delivery, and evaluation of consumer goods and services; influencing the creation of policy; and shaping societal change, thereby enhancing the human condition.

Students in Human Development and Family Science take foundation courses in content areas based upon the American Association of Family and Consumer Sciences (AAFCS) and the National Council on Family Relations (NCFR) standards. In addition, students take restricted supporting courses in the program.

There are two options available within the major:

- Family and Consumer Sciences Education (teaching option) (p. 1)
- Human Development and Family Science (p. 3)

There are also three minors available that are related to the major:

- Personal and Consumer Finance (http://catalog.montana.edu/undergraduate/education-health-human-development/personal-finance)
- Teaching (Family and Consumer Sciences Education) (http://catalog.montana.edu/undergraduate/education-health-human-development/department-education/teaching-minors/family-consumer-sciences-minor)

Family and Consumer Sciences Education Option

The family and consumer sciences education (FCS Ed) option prepares effective educators who empower individuals and families to manage challenges of living and working in a diverse, global society. Since education is a people-centered profession, the program focuses on characteristics of various learners, learning principles, and different applications of the teaching-learning process.

The FCS Ed program is a versatile major due to the preparation of the student as both an educator and a family and consumer scientist. Teachers in this area are in high demand across the state and the nation because they are qualified to teach many different subject areas, including nutrition and foods, interior design, child and human development, financial literacy, clothing and textiles, and more. MSU’s family and consumer science education students have nearly a 100% pass rate on the Praxis exam (required of all teachers) and 100% job placement after they graduate.

This program is a good fit for individuals who want to make a positive difference, have strong communication and leadership skills, and work well with other people, especially adolescents.

Career Opportunities. A wide variety of career opportunities in the field are possible. Graduates are employed in both traditional and nontraditional teaching settings primarily including:

- Family & Consumer Sciences Classroom Teacher (grades 5-12 licensed in Montana)
- Youth Services Specialist
- Extension Educator

Completion of the family and consumer sciences education option prepares undergraduate students to pursue graduate degrees in a variety of areas including human development and family science, curriculum and instruction, school counseling, and adult education.

Student Teaching. Student teaching is the culmination of the teaching program. Students have the opportunity to apply knowledge and skills acquired in college courses under the supervision of an experienced family and consumer sciences educator. Upon successful completion of the program, candidates will be recommended for a Montana teaching license in Family and Consumer Sciences grades 5-12. For more information on admission to the Teacher Education Program (http://www.montana.edu/fieldplacement), Student Teaching, Licensure, Professional Expectations, National Council for the Accreditation of Educator Preparation (CAEP) and more.

Suggested Minors/Certifications. FCS Education students are encouraged to further increase their professional opportunities with a minor or certification.

- Teaching minor in another endorsement area (http://catalog.montana.edu/undergraduate/education-health-human-development/department-education/teaching-minors)
- Certified Family Life Educator (https://www.ncfr.org/cfle-certification)
- Personal and Consumer Finance minor (http://catalog.montana.edu/undergraduate/education-health-human-development/personal-finance)

Program of Study. The curriculum at MSU follows the National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Teachers and the National Standards for Family and Consumer Sciences Students. The FCS Ed program works closely with the Food & Nutrition, Early Childhood Education & Child Services, Hospitality Management, and Interior Design programs to ensure that students receive well-rounded preparation. Students have up to 9 elective credits to specialize their training in a Career and Technical Pathway area.
Students must receive a grade of "C" or higher in all required courses as outlined in the major.

Note: The teaching option requires 121 credits.

Human Development and Family Science Major

The human development and family science option provides a strong background for students seeking careers in human services, family life education, family policy, and financial counseling. The curriculum prepares students to work in a wide range of organizations and settings (community-based services, family intervention, business, government and public policy, faith-based organizations, healthcare and family wellness, and non-profit organizations). The degree program also prepares students to be strong candidates for graduate programs in marriage and family therapy, counseling, family financial planning, human development, family science, social work, law, and other related behavioral and social science disciplines.

Students completing the degree may apply for provisional certification as a Certified Family Life Educator (https://www.ncfr.org/sites/default/files/montana_state_univ_bozeman_1.pdf). MSU’s human development and family science major (formerly known as family and consumer sciences major) is accredited by the National Council on Family Relations. Provisional certification is awarded at the completion of a baccalaureate degree and course work in the 10 family life substance areas. After two years’ work experience, the student may apply for full CFLE certification. Students are also encouraged to complete the courses required to take a national exam for the certification as an Accredited Financial Counselor (HDFS 138, HDFS 337, and HDFS 339).

Students must receive a grade of "C" or higher in all required courses as outlined in the major.
